Excerpt: . . . say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry. It is a great mistake to imagine that the great power of wealth is to supply wants; in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred it creates more wants than it supplies. --Anon. The rich man in the Gospel was a bad accountant when he set down a tion, and dream of many years that they are to live: whereas they should be careful to practise subtraction and diminution--to know that every day, nay every hour, every moment, calleth off a part of their lives. - -W. Attersol. Oh what bustling is there here for the world, and making provision for futurity, when far less would serve the turn! We need not victual a ship to cross the channel to France, as if she...
