Not illustrated. 1881 Excerpt: . . . exactly agree with those of the Journal, which could rarely be the case, were any of the Journal entries omitted in posting; and as the footings of the Journal columns also tally with that of the Day Book, it is almost conclusive that all the original entries have found their way into the Ledger. There will remain but two chances of error in the accounts, viz. : from improper Journal entries, or from posting to the wrong accounts. In order to afford this additional test, we have found it necessary to carry into the Trial Balance the total footings of the Ledger. If we desired only to test the balances, this would not be necessary, as will be seen from the following example: We have here a test of equal debits and credits quite as satisfactory as the other, and much more brief, upon the principle...
